

Afternoon Tea

The ritual of afternoon tea owes its origins to Anna, the 7th Duchess of Bedford.

As a young woman in the early 1800s she lived during a time when it was common to eat only two main meals a day, with breakfast scheduled early in the morning and dinner occurring late in the evening. Weakened and irritated by hunger pangs each day, she decided to schedule time to take tea and snack each afternoon. This private ceremony was firstly done furtively in her bedroom, but over time well-heeled acquaintances joined her and the practice was perpetuated. Nowadays tea rooms throughout the country offer permutations of this centuries-old tradition.

Maryborough Afternoon Tea is indulgent, maintaining rich flavours the fayre is light but satisfying. The menu pairs nicely with wide variety of specially chosen coffees, teas and herbal infusions.
